RUBBER BELTING. Important to all who use Belting. We have just patented a new article in Rubber Belting which is sold under the name of GIANT BELTING. This Belting is put with the usual plies of Duck and Rubber, and before vulcanizing on the outside cover, it is stitched in seams one inch apart, with cotton cord, which has a tensile strength of fifty pounds. It is these stitched in the seams after the belt is vulcanized, drawing the plies of duck close together, that they cannot wear off on the pulleys. The outside cover is then put on and vulcanized, so that it cannot open, as is the case of Rubber Belts made in the ordinary way, and the plies, being firmly stitched as well as frictioned together, that the belt cannot separate as rotary belts made in the ordinary way will, after being in use for a time, especially when run at great speed or in damp places. We particularly call the attention of all mill owners to this belt as, being in the west, the climate is very different from that on the Atlantic coast, where the first belting made in the country was put in operation. We believe it will wear more than double the length of time, and will not stretch as much as the ordinary belt. It is also superior for Stitched Belts, as we stitch the lacing in such a way that it cannot pull out. Try our Giant Belts. ... will wear out ... Samples and quotations ... Terrible Suffering. Kidney and Bladder Complaints of Many Years Duration—His Word as Good as Gold—Case of City Assessor Francis Gomard, 89 Sumner St., Lowell, Mass. "His word is as good as a bank note at any bank in Lowell, and I know it," was the opinion of a well known citizen in speaking of Gomard. Your reporter found Mr. Gomard at his pleasant home, which, with many others, adorns Sumner street, and from the charming party of South Common. Mr. Gomard said, "I had been, as many of my friends in Lowell all know, a great sufferer from kidney and urinary troubles for a long time. My physician said it was the result of diseased kidneys, and enlargement of the prostate gland. I had suffered terribly, and although my doctor's treatment had been the best which this city afforded, I got no better. I said finally, 'Doctor, it's no use. You have done all that is in your power to do, I know that; but I must get help from some other source or die.' Finally I was induced to try Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY, a medicine which had been recommended very highly for kidney diseases. I received help at once. It has acted like a charm with me. Why so? Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY is an honest preparation, and I know it. I didn't think anything would help me, but this has given me better health than any medicine I ever used for me. I have recommended it to several many of my friends in the city of Lowell, and with the same results. They think there is nothing like Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY." ... A novel spectacle excited the people of Keyser, Penn., last Saturday, and drove several witnesses who happened to have unloaded guns on their shoulders almost to the verge of lunacy. There is great joy in Russia over the capture of Mlle. Finger the fair and ferocious Nihilist. Having the beauty of a Venus, she has thirsted for the blood of autocrats with the fury of a fiend. Murder has been her business. She has long been a leading spirit among the Nihilists. Powder, bullets and dynamite have been her tools. The murder of the Tsar has been her ambition. She has been an arch-conspirator in many of the fearful plots which have caused no great uneasiness in the Russian court. She is a woman of intelligence, a graduate of a medical school, charming in conversation. So great are her powers of fascination that she is almost thought a sorceress, and her captors dare not trust themselves long in her presence. None but the old or blind are admitted to her cell. The government hardly dares to trust her to its own judges, and don't know what to do with the siren.

Isaac Lehmann, one of a firm of glass-button makers in New York, disappeared on February 21, and has not since been seen. His absence, in addition to causing his partner and cousin, Grandchaud Lehmann much sorrow, caused serious embarrassment also, because the bank books were in the name of Isaac Lehmann, and no money could be drawn out, even to pay living expenses. Last week, Monday, Grandchaud Lehmann went away, ostensibly to Philadelphia, to collect several bills. He was to have returned the next day, but has not yet come back. Before his departure he placed a gold watch and chain in the hands of one of his work women with a letter telling her to give it to his cousin, if the latter should ever return, and to keep a lookout for the dead bodies of both. The two men were bachelors, and had no relatives in this country, but had well-to-do connections in France.

Foss was chairman of the Greenback State Committee and Berry was employed by the committee to edit a campaign paper published in Lewiston. A. F. Mr. Troop and his son had a narrow escape from drowning, as both went into the river with the team. The horse and sleigh were worth over $300.

Knox.

The Press says there seems nothing left for the Knox & Lincoln railroad and the towns along its route, but to continue the present management of the road, as the Maine Central has refused to purchase it for $1,400,000, the sum recently agreed upon by the towns. Since the Maine Central acquired control of the European & North American railroad, conditions have changed in Maine, and a shore line combination is not regarded quite so probable as heretofore. The towns along the road are getting their railroad indebtedness in more favorable condition than in the past. During the past year Bath has paid $22,760 of matured Knox and Lincoln bonds, and has also purchased $412,500 of the six per cent. bonds issued in aid of the road, and this besides paying $8,355 for interest on the stock bonds of the road. The committee for the reduction of the city debt has also provided for $41,700 of its railroad bonds which mature next July. The city of Rockland during the past year paid $4,700 of its matured railroad bonds and purchased $4,200 of the bonds not due, so that its indebtedness on account of the railroad at the close of the municipal year was reduced to $409,800. The town of Newcastle paid last year $6,900 of its railroad bonds, and refunded into four per cents $46,900, and the town of Damariscotta decreased its railroad indebtedness $3,100, leaving the total remaining indebtedness $107,900.

Oxford.

On Monday evening, March 26, Joseph Robinson, who was married in Leeds, Yorkshire, England, fifty years ago, celebrated his golden wedding in Oxford. There were a large number of relatives and friends present, among whom were H. J. Libby, J. B. Libby, ex-Mayor Libby and W. E. Gould, of Portland, C. I. Bonker, of Lewiston, and Seth T. Holbrook, of Oxford, President of the Oxford County Agricultural Association. J. W. Parrot, of Yale, read an original poem. Mr. Robinson's twenty-six children and grandchildren were all present. Every one enjoyed themselves to the full and it was a delightful gathering. During the evening Mr. Robinson brought out a small, ancient looking round tin box—all black and worn, with the rust of many years upon it. Upon opening it, two large, old-fashioned coats were seen—so covered with the rust of time that one could hardly see what they were. They were the two little copper coins, once Mr. Robinson's sole fortune.

Mrs. Lois B. Goodrich, of Holyoke, recently died at Waterborn, at the age of nearly ninety-eight years. Nine of her fifteen children are still living, and she had fifty-seven grandchildren, of whom twenty-eight are living, forty-six great-grandchildren, thirty-nine surviving, and eleven great-great-grandchildren, of whom eight are alive. In all Mrs. Goodrich has had one hundred and twenty-nine descendants and eighty-four are surviving. Mrs. Goodrich was the youngest of twelve children. Her maiden name was Butler, and she was born in Berwick. She was twice married; and had eight children by her first and seven by her second husband. Her oldest surviving daughter is in her seventy-fourth year. Mrs. Goodrich's father lived to be eighty-eight, and her mother eighty-seven years of age. After Mrs. Goodrich was eighty-two years old, she visited her children in Canada, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Massachusetts; she also walked from Bunker Hill to Arlington in preference to riding. She was never happy unless at work, and used to remark that if there was anything new she wanted to know it." Some time ago she dislocated her wrist and set it herself, saying she was doctor enough."

AN ACT OF PROVIDENCE.

AN AUGUSTA MAN RAISED FROM A BED OF SICKNESS BY PRAYER.

[Kennebec Journal.]

Almost everybody in Augusta has heard of Elder Frank Ward, a minister of the Christian church, residing on the Togus road, a distance of two miles from the city. On the 25th of October last he cut a terrible gash in his left ankle while chopping wood, the axe entering the limb between the bones of the leg and severing several cords and arteries. So serious was the cut, that before a physician could arrive, he lost all but four pounds of blood, at least, so the doctor said. As a result he was very low and a great sufferer the entire winter. At times Mr. Ward would be irrational and his mind would be wandering. So weak was he that fall winter long he did not sit up but two half hours excepting to have his bed made. The sufferer was constantly growing weaker, and shortly before the healing his appetite failed him, and he slept but six hours during the last week. To make the case still worse neuralgia set in. Nearly every one had given him over to die.

On the 14th of March he had trouble around the heart and had convulsions. On coming out of them, Mr. Ward stated that he had received a despatch from God which said that he should be healed on the 25th of March, at four o'clock P. M., being just five months to a day and an hour from the time the cut was received; also, that at the same hour he should arise from his couch and walk from the same to the kitchen door, a distance of eight feet. He told his attendants to take the medicine away; that the Lord Jesus Christ had taken his case in hand and it was for God's glory.

Sunday the 25th of March came. He could only take half a teaspoonful of water at a time; his extremities were cold. About 3.30 o'clock P.M., people began to gather until 28 were present. Shortly before four o'clock Elder Ward requested several of the Brothers to put on his clothing, which was done. Then the hymn "The Great Physician Now is Near" was sung, and the 15th chapter of 1st Kings commencing with the 21st verse was read. Following this Friends minister, Phebe Wadsworth, of this city, offered prayer, also Mrs. Stewart. On his request he was raised from his reclining position by Brothers present. Before leaving the bed his breath became natural, and he became perfectly calm. Then at precisely four o'clock, Mr. Ward arose from his bed, stood up, the first time for five months, and walked to the door but very little lame. Here, he says, the Lord told him to walk back to the bed again, at the same command he walked to the door and back again.

On returning the last time, he took hold of one corner of the bed and lifted it bodily from the floor so that a caster dropped out. Then sitting down on his couch the heretofore bedridden man shouted, "Glory to God!" again and again, a little remarkable from the fact that he had not spoken above a whisper for two years and a half. At supper time our friend walked to the table, sat down and ate a hearty meal, and in the evening sang a hymn. At night he lay down to slumber and slept perfectly sound all night long, the first natural sleep for five months.

In the morning Mr. Ward arose, dressed himself, went to the door and shouted praises to God so that the neighbors were aroused across the street. Since March 25th, the day of the miraculous healing; the Elder has been up and walking about seemingly as smart as ever, and repeatedly offering thanks to God. Next Sabbath afternoon Elder Ward will preach in the chapel on Chashnoc Heights, when all can have an opportunity to hear from his own lips of the Lord's wonderful goodness to him.

THE RHODE ISLAND VICTORY.

A BACK-SET TO THE BUTLER BOOM.

The sweeping Republican triumph in Rhode Island is a cause of congratulation for all citizens who recognized the disreputable and desperate character of the "Sprague movement." It would be hard to conceive a more disgraceful thing than the election to the Governorship of a New England State, of a man who has so far forfeited all respect as the dissolute representative of a once proud name, who was selected by Gen. Butler to lead his "boom" in Rhode Island. The returns show that large numbers of Democrats absolutely refused to sanction such a candidacy and condition, and one of the significant features of the result is the set-back it gives to the scheming of the Massachusetts aspirant for New England prestige and backing for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Rhode Island stands firmly in the Republican column; and although a small State, its success in resisting such a combination as that worked up by Butler and his allies, affords an encouraging sign of the times

MAYOR CUMMINGS'S POLICE.

The new Mayor has been wrestling with the great problem of parcelling out a dozen appointments on the police force among about two hundred hungry and fierce applicants for the position of "guardians of the public peace." He was unable to make up his mind in season for the regular meeting when the police appointments should have been made, but at the special meeting last night he produced his batch, and the Republican Aldermen promptly let him have his own way. Of the eleven appointments made, only four of the old force are retained, while the seven new appointees embrace some very remarkable material for special upholders of law and preservers of public decorum. The selection of men discharged from employment for inefficiency and intemperance, would be bad enough, but the appointment on the police force of men who have been convicted and fined in our police court for violating the laws by rumselling, would seem to be going beyond what even a Democratic Mayor might be expected to do.

A GOOD RECORD.

EFFICIENT WORK IN THE PENSION BUREAU.

[Special despatch to the Boston Journal.]

WASHINGTON, April 4. The efficiency of the Pension Bureau, under Col. Dudley's management, has never been displayed to better advantage than in the reports of the amount of work performed during the month of March just passed. There were issued during that time a total of eight thousand and forty-seven certificates, six thousand of which were regular pension awards, and the rest certificates for increase under the law passed during the last session of Congress. Nearly two thousand of those just allowed pensions are reported under the heading of gunshot wounds, while the balance were of the usual miscellaneous character, requiring much correspondence and work to secure the necessary evidence. It is a general impression that the Pension Bureau is far behind in work, because cases have not been allowed within a reasonable time after filing. In every case the cause of delay is the fault of the applicant or his attorney in neglecting or failing to furnish the evidence required by law. So close up is the bureau on all applications filed so far, it is believed that by the first of July next every case will have been examined. Col. Dudley, when making application to Congress in December, 1881, for an increase of force, estimated that if it were granted him he would be able to examine the immense mass of cases then accumulated by December, 1884. The discipline and efficiency of the office, however, will enable the Commissioner to anticipate his promise by nearly six months.

THE CALAIS ELECTION.

The details of the Calais election furnish very pleasant reading for Republicans, the victory of our friends in that city being emphatic and complete. Hon. John G. Marchie, Republican, was elected Mayor by a vote of 561 against 98 for Heath, Democrat, and only one scattering vote. The Republicans elected Aldermen in every ward, some of them by unanimous vote and all by very heavy majorities. Of the retiring Mayor and his successor the Advertiser speaks as follows:

With the end of the week Mayor Boardman will finish his fifth year of service as Mayor, following many years previous service as Alderman. It is the longest term any Mayor has served in this city. He has only accepted office each year at the urgent solicitation of tax payers and against his own wishes, and the long continuance of the demand for his services found emphasis at his last election by a unanimous vote. No man questions or has ever doubted his sterling honesty as a public officer and his earnest intention to do his duty fully, and he is fortunate in closing his long term of service leaving all city affairs in excellent shape and leaving nothing undone which he could do for the welfare of the community.

The nomination of Alderman Murchie satisfied the Democrats that they would be defeated by about the usual majority. They therefore made little effort, and the vote is light, though Mr. Murchie's majority is above the usual majority at our city elections, and greater than that of last fall. He has served many years as Alderman from Ward 3, is familiar with city affairs, and his personal fitness and popularity were well shown by the lack of any serious opposition. The Board of Aldermen contains only three former members, Fowler, Nelson and McCullough, but the new Board as a whole will stand out with the full confidence of the people.

Captain D. G. Tinker, formerly a whaling master and now one of the crew of the Bartlett's Reef Lightship, declares that two hours more of daylight last Saturday would have been worth several thousand dollars to him. He was placidly sailing through the Sound toward New London with his monthly report when a large right whale had the temerity to spout directly under his nose. The captain bore down upon the monster, and for more than an hour kept him in sight, twice getting within fifteen feet, and being driven almost crazy by seeing him rise and spout as many as five times. But the captain's schooner wasn't rigged for capturing whales and it was too late to go ashore for the proper weapons. It is said that a right whale has not been seen before in the Sound for a hundred years.

THE SPRING ELECTIONS.

[N. Y. Tribune.]

The Democratic tidal wave of 1882 has begun to recede. This is the most cheering development of the Western municipal elections. It is especially noticeable in Ohio. In Cincinnati, where the Democrats had a majority of 10,689 last October, the vote was so close on Monday that neither party was able to elect its full ticket. The Democrats succeeded in carrying through their candidate for Mayor by a greatly reduced majority, and they also elected several of the minor officers, but the Republicans elected the Controller, Prosecuting Attorney, Police Court Judge, and several other officers by majorities ranging from 200 to 2,000. This is a handsome gain, and shows that energetic work is all that is needed to restore the city and county to Republican control next October. In Columbus the Republicans have won a notable victory. At the preceding municipal election in 1881, the Democrats elected the Mayor. They were confident of re-electing him this year, because they believed the temperance agitation of last year had driven the German vote over to their side permanently. To their astonishment, the Republicans elected their candidate by 500 or 600 majority, making a gain of at least 1,200 votes since 1881. The significance of this result is great. It shows that the German vote did not go over to the Democrats to stay when it was cast for their candidates last year.

In Cleveland, the Republicans have been defeated, but the result is due largely to dissensions in their own ranks. They made nominations which, to say the least, were unwise. The most prominent and influential Republican newspaper in the city, the Leader, bolted one candidate on the ticket, and its defection injured the whole ticket, because its objection was based partly upon the too prominent use of machine methods in making Republican nominations in the city. The Cleveland result is, therefore, something of a protest against bad men and political trickery, and is not so much a Democratic victory as it is a Republican rebuke. It should be remembered in considering all the Ohio elections that the Democrats swept the State only six months ago by nearly 20,000 majority. They have not only failed to hold their own, but they have lost heavily in all directions.

In Indiana the Democrats have had a noteworthy success, and we desire to give them full credit for it. They have carried the city of Evansville on the repudiation issue. The holders of the bonds of that municipality are $40,000 poorer than they were before the election was held. The Democratic Mayor of Evansville decided last January that the city was paying too high a rate of interest on its bonds, and that if the bondholders would not consent to a reduction from seven per cent. to four the city would repudiate the difference, amounting to $40,000, by refusing to pay more than four per cent. hereafter. The Mayor went before the people for re-election on that issue; the Democrats supported him enthusiastically and he has been re-elected. Possibly, if General Hancock were running for the Presidency again he would duplicate the famous despatch he sent to the Fusion candidate in Maine, and congratulate the repudiating Mayor of Evansville on his "glorious victory." At all events, we hasten to congratulate the Democracy upon this legitimate fruit of its financial teaching. It has been defending repudiation in the South, and has never failed to coalesce with a dishonest financial movement anywhere. We beg to submit for its thoughtful consideration the suggestion that the successful Mayor of Evansville be given a place on the next National Democratic ticket.

Whatever success the Democrats have won in Michigan, and it is not great, is due entirely to their union with the Greenbackers. It is a Fusion victory pure and simple. We all know what that combination stands for. It is the rag-tag and bob-tail of all parties, with no principles which are not bad, and no purposes which are either patriotic or honest. The vote shows that this combination is weaker in Michigan than it was last fall; and it is sure to grow weaker all the time. In surveying the field, then, it becomes apparent that the Republicans have made encouraging gains at all points where they deserved to gain, and that the Democrats have won only by a sacrifice of principle.

THE NEW POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

In his despatch to the Boston Journal, "Webb" says that the name of Judge Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana, had been under consideration for the Postmaster Generalship for several days, but it was not until Tuesday night that his telegraphic acceptance was received. Judge Gresham was Colonel of the Forty-third Indiana Volunteers and has a very excellent military record. He served under Gen. Grant at Vicksburg, and was recommended by Grant for promotion to a Brigadier Generalship. There was some opposition to his confirmation and it was through Grant's influence that he received his brevet. When Gen. Grant became President he appointed Gresham United States Judge, a position which he now holds. The relations between Grant and Gresham have been intimate since, and it is part of the current gossip that, inasmuch as Judge Howe in the first instance was credited with having been selected at the direct suggestion of Gen. Grant, the wishes of the latter have also been considered in this new appointment.

Judge Gresham has long been credited with a desire to enter political life, and has made several unsuccessful attempts in that direction. He was a candidate for the Republican nomination as Senator against Ben Harrison. He was also considered for a Cabinet position under General Garfield, and he would have received the appointment at that time if the Indiana politicians had been able to agree upon him. This they could not do. There is said to be a sharp personal antagonism between Representative Tom Browne, of Indiana, and Judge Gresham, and Browne, of Indiana, would not agree to Gresham's appointment to the Cabinet at that time. Besides, Representative Calkins aspired to a Cabinet position under Garfield, and was supported by several members of the delegation. General Garfield (it is a part of the secret history of the time) gave the Indiana delegation until 1 o'clock of a certain day to decide whether they could agree upon Judge Gresham. The delegation were unable to agree at that hour, and when they called upon General Garfield later, and indicated that they probably might be able to agree upon some other man, they were informed that it was too late, and that the selection had been made.

Probably the strongest influence in behalf of Judge Gresham has been that exerted by Wm. E. Chandler and John W. Foster, of Indiana, Minister to Spain. The President has great confidence in the political judgment of Mr. Foster, as was illustrated by the fact that his appointment to the Spanish mission was unsolicited. Indiana men here, who know Judge Gresham well, say that he is a man of very marked ability, of high character. The only doubts that are expressed as to his success as an administrative officer are that possibly his long judicial habits may not fit him for administrative affairs. He is 51 years of age, and is a man of fine appearance. His appointment will meet with general popular approval throughout Indiana, but it will not be satisfactory to the leaders of some of the Republican factions in that State, with none of which has Judge Gresham been able to agree.

Judge Gresham was born in Harrison county, Indiana, 51 years ago; was educated at the University of Bloomington, and commenced the practice of law at Corydon, Ind., from which place he was elected to the State Legislature in 1861. He was appointed Chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, and through his energetic efforts Indiana was enabled to respond to the call for troops with her full quota. When the alarm was sounded Gresham was honored by the Governor with a commission as Lieutenant Colonel of the Thirty-eighth Indiana Infantry, and went at once to the front, where his conspicuous military abilities soon attracted the notice of Generals Grant and Sherman, who urged his promotion. Nothing, however, came of it, as many of his colleagues in the Legislature were jealous of the success of the young man, but finally he was offered the Colonelcy of the Fifty-third Infantry, which was in a demoralized condition. By the advice of Sherman he accepted, recruited the regiment and was ordered to Missouri. After a time his regiment was sent to Tennessee, where he was given command of a brigade. He had incurred the enmity of Gov. Morton, who endeavored to secure his dismissal by the President, but Grant and Sherman and McPherson insisted that he be retained.

After the fall of Vicksburg he was nominated by Lincoln, at the suggestion of Gen. Grant, as one of the Brigadier Generals, and after some opposition was confirmed. He was subsequently brevetted as a Major General, and would have been permanently appointed had there been a vacancy. He was severely wounded at Atlanta in 1864, and it was many years before he entirely recovered. He is still lame from his wound. At the close of the war he returned to Indiana and resumed the practice of his profession as the partner of Judge Butler in New Albany. He declined the position of Collector of the port of New Orleans, proffered him by Grant, and when a vacancy in the District Judgeship occurred he was appointed. He has the respect of all political parties.

As Judge Gresham was chosen first as a member of Garfield's Cabinet, the views of Mr. Blaine were sought. "I would rather not say anything," said Mr. Blaine, "but if you use my name at all you may state that I am not talking upon political questions. If I were talking, however, about Judge Gresham, I could say nothing about him except that which is favorable."

The accuracy with which the accounts of the Treasurer of the United States are kept is as remarkable as it is satisfactory. As a result of the examination which was made upon the retirement of Mr. Gilfillan and the induction of his successor, it has been ascertained that the books and the cash balance to a cent. This speaks very well for the system in operation at the Treasurer's office, and for the efficiency and fidelity with which the employes discharge their duties. Our civil service has been subjected to a great deal of adverse criticism for one reason and another, but after all the work of the Government is for the most part notably well done.

The Canadian government asks for an appropriation of $570,487 to aid in promoting immigration to the Dominion. That is another item of expense that will be saved to the people over the border when they are annexed.—Boston Herald.

The last debt statement of the Treasury Department is misleading, if it is to be presumed from it that the reductions are likely to continue at that rate for twelve months. The average reduction for February and March was less than $9,000,000. It is by no means certain that the reduction for future months will much exceed that, owing to the very large probable demands upon the Treasury from the Pension Office. The Commissioner of Pensions, for instance, has stated that he expects during the coming year to use the $100,000,000 which are at his credit, yet the pension payments for nine months have amounted to but $63,000,000, and it is anticipated that for the remaining three months of the fiscal year at least $30,000,000 more will be expended for that purpose.—Wash. Cor. Boston Journal.

The Democratic factions in Georgia are engaged in a beautiful fight over the party's nomination for Governor. The liberal wing accuses the Bourbons of raising the "bloody shirt." The latter have raked up the record of Acting Governor Boynton and are using it to injure his chances. He is ahead so far, however, and may retain his lead. The Republicans have not shown their hand yet, and unless the Democrats split it is doubtful if they put a candidate in the field. There is no State in the South where so much bitterness exists in the Democratic ranks as in Georgia, and the probability of healing the difference becomes less every year. It is likely to be the first State in that section where a permanent division in the party will take place.

Suicide in a Hotel

NASHUA April 5. A stranger arrived in this city from Bangor at half past one to-day and went to the Jackson House. He complained of sickness and took a room and suicided at three o'clock. The landlord heard the report of a pistol and went to the room and found him in bed with a smoking revolver, 22 calibre, in his hand with a wound above the right ear, the ball entering the base of the brain. He claimed that he was a civil engineer on the Old Colony Railroad and his home was in Porterville, N H. His baggage and shirt bore the name of C. G. Butler. Before going to his room he sent a telegram to parties in Boston and Fisherville, telling them to come to Nashua at once if them wished to see him alive.

A Wrestling Match.

NASHUA April 5. In the wrestling match between P. J. Griffin, of Boston, and John Jones, of Nashua, for a purse of $50, Jones won the first fall in three minutes, dip-lock, and Griffin the two following, with a left hip and inside lock respectively. Franklin Opera house was crowded with sporting men from Boston, Lowell and Manchester. Much money changed hands. A lively set-to took place between Wilbur Evans of Philadelphia, and Harry ... of Boston. At the close Griffin presented Jones with a purse of $50. It was the most exciting sporting event ever held in Nashua.

CONNECTICUT.

The Malley Insurance Case.

NEW HAVEN April 5. In the Malley insurance case, to-day against the Atlantic Fire and Marine Insurance Company, of Providence, the Malley's bookkeeper, John L. Bossell, testified that the stock, on January 12, 1882, was inventoried at $136 000, and purchases were made, subsequent to the time of the fire of about $77 000, making the stock inventory $213,000. The sales during the same period were $53,867; the gross profits in 1881 were $31,725, and from January 12 to February 27, $9,943. At the time of the fire the value of the goods was $147,000. Judge Beardsley denied the motion to non suit.

The insurance companies claim that according to a clause in their policy the insurance is void where a change of ownership of the property took place without their consent. It was shown by testimony that the firm became E Malley & Co January 13, 1882. The defence seek to show that the goods of E Malley were insured and not E. Malley & Co., and that there was an over-valuation and fraud. The testimony was closed and arguments will be heard to-morrow. The plaintiffs claim that there was simply an agreement for partnership and that one Neally, nominal a member of the company was not actually, as he had not performed the conditions of the agreement.

Yale Law School.

NEW HAVEN April 5. Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, U S Senator from Delaware, will deliver the oration at the Yale Law School Commencement.

DYNAMITE FIENDS.

Some Important Captures.

LONDON, April 5. A semi-weekly newspaper called the City Press published yesterday evening, announced that it had received a letter, without a signature, in which the writer threatened to blow up the government offices. The affair was referred to the police and late last night English detectives, assisted by the Irish secret service, arrested a man who had a quantity of stuff supposed to be dynamite. The detectives had followed the prisoner from Manchester, as he appeared suspicious. Army officials at Woolwich are now engaged in a chemical examination of the explosive compound found on him. The police regard the arrest as a most important one. Precautionary measures have been renewed, especial attention being given to the protection of the buildings in which are the offices of the Ministry and of all public officials. Extra sentinels have been posted at Windsor Castle, where the Queen is, and about the Post Office. Policemen and detectives are watching every corner where the dynamite fiends or incendiaries could possibly be expected to work.

Half a Ton of Nitro Glycerine.

The Irish police here made two further arrests in the suburb of Lambeth, in connection with the man arrested last night. The latter is now said to be an American. Nearly half a ton of nitro glycerine has been seized in London already.

An Important Capture.

BIRMINGHAM, April 5. The police raided the suspected locality in Ledram street, and discovered a Fenian nitro glycerine factory in full operation there. The apparatus for preparing and mixing the explosive compounds was constructed on scientific principles and with all the cunning craft which clearly showed its inventor to be not only a thorough scholar in chemistry and machinery, but also an adept in expedients for avoiding notoriety and preventing discovery. Among the noteworthy features of the place, was a shrewdly devised method for carrying the fumes up the chimney and condensing odors. It is learned that the premises in Ledram street were taken two months ago by a man named Whitehead, an Irish American, who had a sign hung on the front of his place indicating that his business was that of a paper hanger.

Whitehead himself was taken into custody when the police made their descent on the den. A considerable quantity of nitro glycerine was seized. Information in the hands of the detectives tends to demonstrate that this place is the central manufactory of explosives, and the most important depot of all the infernal contrivances in the Kingdom. Whitehead, who is described as about 25 years of age, dark in complexion, with a marked American accent, has been in the habit of purchasing supplies of nitro glycerine and acids which were necessary to run the business.

Later Particulars

LONDON, April 5. Learned to-night that the man first arrested last night near Fleet street had engaged rooms on South street, giving the name of Ormond, and stating he was a medical student. He subsequently said his correct name was Norman. A box of explosives was taken to Norman's by a person who looked more like a tramp or a street loafer than a porter or friend of a medical student. It is believed that both this man and the elderly man have been identified in the persons of the two men arrested at Lambeth to day.

One of these men had sewed up in his clothing a large sum of money a portion of which was reported as being in American coins. It is a significant feature of the arrests that street rumor made free use of American names and connected many Irish-Americans with the plots. One of the Lambeth prisoners had secured lodgings in the name of Wilson. His movement, however, excited so much suspicion that he left his room yesterday and when he returned at noon to-day found five officers awaiting him.

Norman undoubtedly came direct from Birmingham. The place where he was stopping is just over the office where is printed the Court Circular, and the proprietor of that sheet recently received letters containing dire threats, the origin of which he has now no difficulty in tracing to the prisoner. The fourth arrest of the day was that of Henry Dalton, who was taken into custody to night. He came from the United States about two weeks ago. He was found at the rooms of the American Exchange and made no resistance when informed of the errand of the officers. Dalton is confined in jail at Scotland Yard.

There was a sensation in the Commons when these arrests were announced. Sir William Harcourt, Home Secretary, in a brief speech outlining the facts, confirmed what had up to this been merely a rumor that Norman had been put under arrest. He added that 150 pounds of highly explosive liquid had been found in Norman's quarters and that it was stored in skilfully devised rubber bags. He also confirmed the discovery of a dynamite manufactory at Birmingham and gave particulars of the affair.

A Financial Statement.

LONDON, April 5. In Commons, to-day, Mr Hugh C Childers, Chancellor of the Exchequer laid before the House the Budget for the financial year ending March 31, 1883. The total revenue for the year was £89 004 000 which exceeded the estimate by £4,069 000, total expenditures £88,906,000, showing a surplus of £98,000. The expenses of the war in Egypt, including the amount contributed to defray the cost of the Indian contingent were £3,968,000.

The Socialist Congress.

COPENHAGEN, April 5. The Socialist Congress was treated to an unwelcome surprise from the Danish government. On the fourth day, while in the midst of its session, the prefect of police, after securing the King's approval, sent to Herr Liebknecht, one of the most outspoken delegates, and served on him an order to close the congress forthwith. Those members who came from foreign countries were informed that it was desired, by the Danish authorities that they leave Denmark not later than Tuesday.

THE CARLETON MURDER.

Arrest of the Supposed Murderer.

BOSTON, April 5. Frazier Curliff has been arrested as a principal, and Anthony Smith and John Clark as witnesses in the recent murder of Mrs. Etta G. Carleton, at Watertown, Mass. Witnesses, it is understood, have stated that $250 were paid to Curliff to commit the crime, and that the clothes he wore at the time and which were covered with blood were thrown into the Charles river for concealment. The above parties are all colored.

The Star Route Trial.

In the Star Route trial to-day the examination of Valle was concluded. John W. Dorsey was the next witness, and was examined by Ingersoll. He denied ever having conspired with anyone to defraud the Government. Had spoken to Brady but once in his life. The Court adjourned with Dorsey still testifying.

The Methodist Conference.

BOSTON, April 5. In the New England Methodist Conference to-day an invitation was received from the Southern Conference at Providence to visit it some day this week. The committee to which it was referred recommended Saturday as the date. Dr. Nynett, of Philadelphia, made an address on church extension. Dr. R. S. Rust, Secretary of the Freedman's Aid Society, then submitted his annual report, which was very satisfactory. Rev. Mr. Bowman, a colored graduate of a Southern College, delivered a well worded address on the subject of educating the race he represented. The evening session was devoted to the anniversary of the New England Historical Society. Hon. Thomas Greene and Rev. S. F. Upham, of New Jersey, were the principal speakers.

Fast Day.—The Governor's Proclamation Criticised.

Fast Day was generally observed in Massachusetts and New Hampshire to-day by a suspension of business, and religious exercises in the Protestant churches. In Boston the Governor's proclamation was discussed in several pulpits. Rev. James Freeman Clark discoursed, in the Church of the Disciples, on the fable of the brambles and the trees, and made his criticism of Butler personal in its nature without being personal in his terms. He urged that the reign of the bramble would be ended when the real disposition of the bramble was appreciated. Dr. Bartol, of the West Church, was personal in his criticism of the Governor, but gave him credit for his services in the war. He defined the Governor's character as a mixture of good and bad in such an intense way that there was nothing about him you could be satisfied with. Other ministers were less critical in their discourses, and devoted their time in discussing the general topics of the hour.

The wedding took place at the residence of the bride's parents in the presence of relatives and near friends, and the ceremony was very happily performed by Rev. Amory Battles, of this city. Mr. Arnold has been for several years in Minnesota and is now in the employ of the Washburn Mill Co., at Minneapolis. He is a young man of fine promise, and the bride leaves a wide circle of warm friends ... [illegible]

... Neil, yesterday, had a spree, and while steeped with liquor commenced abusing his wife. Taking up a piece of wood he struck at her and when she attempted to ward off the blow it was received on the arm, and the bone was fractured just above the wrist. This brutal affair occurred about four o'clock in the afternoon at their home on Boyd street lane. McNeil was subsequently arrested and passed the night at the station house.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY. In the latter portion of yesterday forenoon a horse belonging to Mr. James Milliken, residing on Valley avenue, became frightened on Park street, and spilling out his driver ran down through East Market square and collided with the window of the Mutual Union Telegraph office, breaking the sash and glass. Retiring from this odd position he continued along Kenduskeag Bridge following along the sidewalk and was finally captured near the foot of Hammond street.

THE INSANE HOSPITAL. A special meeting in Augusta of the trustees of the Insane Hospital was held Tuesday and Wednesday. Plans for a new hospital building were agreed upon and proposals issued to contractors to bid for the work. The law requires the work to be done by contract. A building committee, consisting of J. H. Manley, of Augusta, Sylvester Oaks, Auburn, and J. T. Hinkley, Bluehill, was appointed, which will have charge of the work. Mrs. O. A. Quimby has declined a reappointment as trustee tendered by Gov. Robie, and there is therefore a vacancy in the Board of Trustees. The next meeting will be held the 17th of this month.

PLEASANT WORDS FROM AUGUSTA. The Maine Farmer says. The new opera house at Bangor, of which the citizens are so justly proud, is a very bijou of a playhouse. Costing $50,000, it is worth every cent of the money in the elegant accommodations it gives for pleasure and relaxation. It attracts those entertainments of a high order that skip the places where they can only have the accommodations afforded by the average hall. Its attractiveness, unique beauty and adaptability for the objects designated are not excelled by any place of entertainment this side of Boston. Mr. F. A. Owen is the efficient and gentlemanly manager of the opera house. Augusta needs just such an institution.

TEMPERANCE SOCIABLE. Pharos Temple of Honor held an enjoyable sociable at their pleasant hall last evening. The programme embraced the following: Piano solo, "Dear Mollie Magee," with variations, by Miss Rita Bragdon; recitation, "Tom's Little Star," by Miss Mable Haynes; piano solo, "Zephyr," by Miss Allie Haynes; song, "Nannie's Confession," by Miss Alice E. Gorham; piano solo, "Mocking Bird," by Miss Katie Perkins; song, "Kitty of Col Raine," by Miss Allie Haynes, recitation, "Our Folks," by Miss Mable Haynes; stereopticon exhibition with music by Miss Rita Bragdon; piano solo, "Fresh Life March," by Miss Katie Perkins, and song, "Where There's a Will There's a Way," by Miss Alice E. Gorham. During the evening cake, coffee and ice cream were served.

LUMBER NOTES. The teams and crews have in numerous instances deserted the woods and within a week or ten days they will have left the forests altogether. The logging operations, now about brought to a close, have been pushed vigorously and conducted on a large scale, yet not with the success anticipated by some. The past winter has not been exceptionally favorable for the lumbermen, owing to the intense cold and absence from thaws, thus making the hauling extremely hard. The thin and exhausted condition of the horses as they leave the woods bespeak that the season has been one of unusually severe usage for them. It is as yet difficult to say what the lumber cut during the past winter on Penobscot waters has been, but it is well known that the estimates made earlier by some sanguine ones of 140,000,000 to 150,000,000 are much too high and good judges at present vary from 110,000,000 to 130,000,000 feet.

MAINE'S FAMOUS OPERA SINGER. Mrs. R. A. Gower, whose maiden name was Lillian Norton, who was bred in Farmington, Me., and who won the hearts of opera-goers in Paris under the name of Mlle. Nordica, gave up her superb situation at the Grand Opera House, Paris "on principle." Formerly as the finance and later as the wife of the man of her choice, she consistently and persistently objected to love making on the stage as the French public demands it shall be done. She would at no actual kissing or hugging. This offended the audience, and greatly displeased M. Gounod, in whose "Faust" she was singing. So at last the manager said to her: "You must allow yourself to be caressed, bone fide, or you must resign." With native Yankee pluck she answered: "Resign it is, then." Her husband, of course, was delighted, and now the happy young couple have lots of fun at the opera watching the performances of other prime donne, who can't sing as well as Mrs. Gower, but whose lips and waists are not so jealously guarded.

Esmeralda.

The sale of seats for next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings' representations of "Esmeralda," opens at the box office to-morrow morning. Lookout for a rush. The following is from the Boston Post:

The great Madison Square success, "Esmeralda," written by Mrs. Burnett and W. H. Gillette, was presented at the Park Theatre last evening for the first time in Boston. Both as a story and a play it is worthy of high praise. It is simply the story of how a little North Carolina girl, whose parents are, by the discovery of ore on their farm, suddenly made rich, is separated by her ambitious and heartless mother from her uncouth, but noble lover, and is taken to Paris to be sold to a Marquis for his title, but is saved from that fate by the discovery that the mine which afforded the wealth is not on her parents' farm, but upon that of her lover's. It is a pure, sweet, pathetic, almost poetic story of true love, illuminated at times by flashes of wit and humor, and it not only holds the attention of the beholders, but touches their hearts as well, and is indeed one of the most thoroughly delightful dramatic works presented in Boston for many a day.

OBITUARY.

Capt. Jeremiah French.

Capt. Jeremiah French, whose death in this city, on the 25th of March, was duly chronicled, was born in Prospect, Me., Dec 26th, 1800, and was the eldest son of William and Mary French. He early began to follow the seas and for between forty and fifty years led the life of a mariner, being a greater portion of the time in command of some craft. He was a successful shipmaster, never had any difficulty with his men and never lost a vessel. He never had any sickness on board the vessels which were in his command and never lost but one member of his crew, who fell from the topsail-yard and was killed by striking on the house. Among the vessels which he commanded, and in most of which he was quite largely interested, were the Boston Packet, sch. Truxillo, brigs Mosel and Elmers, barque Ghilindo, schs. Orianna and Alpine, brig Lacoste and the ship Golden Rocket, the latter being the first vessel burned by the Confederacy during the Rebellion. During his long connection with the sea he has been in all kinds of vessels excepting a sloop, and the only accident encountered by a craft in his command, was to the Boston Packet, bound from Boston to Bucksport, and which was run into by another vessel in Boston Harbor, a sister and cousin of Capt French being drowned at the time.

Capt. French was married Jan 29th, 1833, to Miss Anna Crockett, who was born in Castine and was the oldest daughter of Daniel Crockett, formerly of Buckfield. The couple lived most happily together for a period of more than fifty years, until, shortly after the rounding of the half century of married life, the ties were broken asunder by the decease of Capt. French. The wife still survives him, in the enjoyment of good health and resides at the homestead on Main street, near Larkin street. During many of his voyages, some of them very extended ones, Mrs. French accompanied him. About 1851 he retired from his sea-faring career and since that time has lived in this city. As a result of his life on the ocean wave he had acquired a handsome competence but he chose to be employed a portion of his time, and each summer, for a score of years was connected with the barge which was run on the Penobscot for a long time by Capt. Hugh Ross and later by Ross & Howell. While running on this excursion steamer he came in contact with great numbers of our people, and the passengers all learned to honor and esteem him.

There were no children born of them, but several boys and girls were taken into their charge at different times and remained in the family periods of many years. The first child taken by them was Geo. W. Stafford, son of Edward Stafford of Frankfort, who came April 25, 1834, at the age of 6 years and remained with them 13 years. The next was Charles Adams, son of Dr Moses Adams, of Ellsworth, who came May 22 1834, aged 4 years and lived with them 16 years. In 1836 Aletha Ann French, a daughter of Matthew Simpson, was adopted by them at the age of 9 months and she died Oct 29, 1841, aged 6 years. On Nov. 1, 1843, Ellen M. French was taken from the Almshouse and adopted to take the place of the one lost. She was 6 years old when she came and lived with them 11 years; now she is the wife of Charles W. Small, of Toledo, Ohio. Alberta Kimball came when 12 years of age and remained with them 6 years, she is now bookkeeper at Wheelwright, Clark & Co's. Three others lived with them one, two and three years respectively. One of these was L. L. Crockett, who for the past five years was State Treasurer of Nevada. In addition to these several others lived with them shorter spaces of time.

Capt. French was the soul of honor and was one of those rare individuals of whom it can be said he always did as he would be done by him. No more fitting tribute to his memory can be presented than the following lines penned by a young man, who was very intimately acquainted with him and is now absent from Bangor, in a private letter to friends in this city.

"I was exceedingly pained to hear of the death of Captain French for he was one of the very, very few men of Bangor for whom I had the profoundest respect, and when I read for the first time that he had passed away I could have wept. As I write this, I am reminded of his pure and conscientious life as evinced in his every act and deed, and his love for the truth and detestation and abhorrence of all manner of cant and dissimulation, of which I used to hear him and with so much pleasure whenever we were together, and which has made such an impression upon my mind that his memory will forever remain sweet to me and will be to me as a bright star in the firmament of the heavens, when troubled by the deceit and hypocricy which a young man constantly meets with in this world."

Death finally resulted from inflammation caused by his ribs pressing against his lungs and heart, three of his ribs having been fractured on two separate occasions long years before. At the funeral, which was largely attended by prominent citizens and men engaged in navigation, the pall bearers were Capt. Hugh Ross, Capt. E. M. Trim, Capt. A. P. Veazie and Capt. Coney.

Knowing the accidents to which firemen are constantly subject, Captain Allen advises everybody connected with a Fire Department to keep a bottle of Pain Killer always on hand. MWF

MOVEMENTS OF THE PLANETS FOR APRIL.

[Providence Journal.]

Venus is morning star and is still the fairest of the train, as she holds her state in the eastern sky, and heralds the coming of the sun. She is now approaching the sun as she travels on the path leading from western elongation to superior conjunction; her progress is seemingly so slow that she will not reach the goal and finish her course as morning star until the 20th of September. On the 10th, Venus is in conjunction with Lambda Aquarii, a star of the fourth magnitude in Aquarius, being twenty-six minutes south of the star when at the nearest point at 11 o'clock in the morning. Although star and planet are not visible at the time of conjunction, they will be worth looking for on the mornings of the 10th and 11th. At half past 4 o'clock Venus will be far enough above the horizon for observation, and will be seen on the west of a small star in her vicinity. This is Lambda Aquarii. On the morning of the 11th it will be seen that planet and star have passed each other, Venus being then east of the star. Observers will note the rapid progress of Venus northward. At the close of the month she will be twelve degrees farther north than she was at its commencement. The right ascension of Venus is now 22h. 10m., her declination is 11°37' south, and her diameter is 26".8

Venus rises on the 1st at eight minutes after 4 o'clock in the morning; on the 30th she rises at thirty-eight minutes after 3 o'clock.

Mars is morning star, but is now too near the sun and too insignificant in size to be of much account. A better time is coming and before many months have passed he will become an object of prominent interest as he approaches opposition. Like Venus he is moving rapidly northward. At the close of the month he will be in northern declination, having traveled nine degrees north during the month. The father north the planets are in this latitude, the more favorably they are situated for observation, and the longer is the circuit they make above the horizon. The right ascension of Mars is 23h 6m, his declination is 6° 39' south, and his diameter is 4".3

Mars rises on the 1st at ten minutes before 5 o'clock in the morning, on the 30th he rises about a quarter before 4 o'clock.

Mercury is morning star until the 16th, and then evening star for the rest of the month. On the 16th, at 6 o'clock in the morning, he is in superior conjunction with the sun, passing behind him, and appearing on his eastern side to play his short role of evening star. He is the most active member of the solar community. On the 27th, rushing eastward at full tilt, with a seeming intention to get as far away from the sun as possible, he encounters Neptune plodding westward with tortoise pace and striving to get as near the sun as possible. They have a conjunction, passing each other at the respectful distance of three degrees. The meeting on the celestial road is invisible to terrestrial observers, on account of the proximity to the sun of the actors in the scene. They, however, will distinguish for the meeting of the planet that travels nearest to the sun and the planet that travels on the system's remotest bounds, is the only planetary conjunction of the month. Mercury is travelling north faster than either Venus or Mars, for during the month his declination northward increases twenty-three degrees. His right ascension is now 23h. 59m., his declination is 2° 23 south and his diameter is 5".6

Mercury rises on the 1st at twenty-one minutes after 5 o'clock in the morning, on the 30th he sets at twelve minutes after 8 o'clock in the evening.

Neptune is evening star, and the leader in the order of rising and setting of the four great planets that are now included in the list of evening stars. He has nearly reached his greatest distance from the earth and is so far away and so near the sun that the largest telescope in the world would fail to bring him to view. His conjunction with Mercury has been referred to. The increasing distance between Neptune and Saturn is worthy of note, for, as the the former is thirteen years in passing through a constellation of the zodiac, and Saturn is only two years and a half, the distance between them must increase. The right ascension of Neptune is 23h., and his declination is 5° 19' north.

Neptune sets on the 1st at a quarter after 9 o'clock in the evening, on the 30th he sets at the past 7 o'clock.

Saturn is evening star, and may be seen in the west for about three hours after sunset. He is now nearly south of the Pleiades and presents no features of especial interest to the ordinary observer. Even the telescopist will soon have to take a season of rest, for the ringed planet will soon be hidden from view by his close approach to the sun. The obscuration will, however, be comparatively short, for those who see him near opposition next autumn will behold him in a more magnificent aspect than the one he has presented during the past autumn and winter. His right ascension is 3h 26m., his declination is 16° 40' north, and his diameter is 16".1

Saturn sets on the 1st twelve minutes before 10 o'clock in the evening; on the 30th he sets about a quarter after eight o'clock.

Jupiter is evening star, the third in the order of setting, but the leader of the planetary brotherhood in size and brilliancy. He distinguishes himself by no noteworthy deeds, but pursues the even tenor of his way, accepting with gracious condescension the involuntary homage of all beholders. His right ascension is 3h 36m., his declination is 18° 15' north, and his diameter is 35".2

Jupiter sets on the 1st at twenty five minutes past 12 o'clock in the morning, on the 30th he sets a few minutes before 10 o'clock in the evening.

Uranus is evening star, and may still be seen by the unaided eye as a very faint star in clear weather on moonless nights. His position varies little from that pointed out last month, a little southeast of Beta Virginis, the largest star in his vicinity. His right ascension is 11h. 26m., his declination is 3°.3. north, and his diameter is 3".8

Uranus sets on the 1st at 9 o'clock in the morning, on the 30th he sets at five minutes after 3 o'clock.

THE MOON

The April moon falls on the 22d at forty three minutes after six o'clock in the morning. The old moon is near Venus on the 5th; Mars on the 8th and Mercury on the 9th. The new moon of the 8th is near Neptune and Saturn on the 9th. The conjunction of the two days old crescent with Saturn will be the most interesting phenomenon of the month, the moon passing forty-one minutes north of the planet. On the 13th the moon is in conjunction with Jupiter, and on the 18th completes her planetary circuit by drawing near to Uranus.

On the 22d the moon is eclipsed. As the eclipse is invisible in this region, though visible on the Pacific coast, the Pacific Ocean and Asia, and as less than one-tenth of her diameter is eclipsed, the occurrence will not be of much consequence.

April is a dull month on planetary records. Scarcely an incident of note enlivens its monotonous routine. An invisible conjunction of the moon; an invisible occultation of Beta Capricorni, an invisible conjunction of Mercury and Neptune, an invisible conjunction of Venus and Lambda Aquarii, complete the unsatisfactory aspect of the planets. But all days are not bird days. Stars must have their seasons of rest, as well as planets and human beings. Before many months have passed, meetings and partings on the celestial road will be as conspicuous by their presence as they are now by their absence. Life will be astir among our neighbors, the planets, and we shall welcome their re-appearance, surrounded by all their former prestige. Even without exciting events, nothing can be more grand than the dome of heaven powdered with stars; nothing more varied than the celestial picture nightly unfolded over our heads. It is well for our appreciation of the shining picture, that it is sometimes hidden by clouds, and that it is not always seen in its most brilliant phase. Emerson says, and all who love to study the heavens endorse his view: "If the stars should appear one night in a thousand years, how could men believe and adore, and preserve for many generations, the remembrance of the city of God that had been shown?"
